Summer Reading Assignment

Standard and Honors Classes

7 Habits of Highly Effective Teens
by Sean Covey

IMPORTANT

This summer reading text will be the foundation for the Leadership magnet next year. It is important that you read the novel and complete the journal tasks that go along with it. In addition to standards-based practice, we will explore various themes and behaviors that the habits address.

Dear Falcons,

Congratulations on successfully finishing another grade 😊 As you move on, it is important to continue to appreciate reading a good book. 😊 Parents and teachers agree that not reading can often lead to a loss of skills over the summer that you worked so hard to practice throughout the school year. Because of that, Quail Hollow enforces summer reading for all students, and all students must complete summer reading activities before the school year begins. We will be using the summer reading text in class on the very first day of school. Summer reading packet activities are due Friday, August 31, 2018 and will count as a grade in your Language Arts class. There will also be a paideia seminar (and associated activities) in the first few weeks of school.

All Grades-

Step 1: Read and annotate The 7 Habits of Highly Effective Teens by Sean Covey. This includes completing the activities in the book itself, too. (This book is available at Barnes and Noble, www.amazon.com, the public library, or a limited amount can be borrowed from QHMS)

Step 2: Complete the assigned tasks as you read. Be sure to list any important reactions or impressions that occur as you read each chapter.
